Conditions of Sale

All bids to be per lot as numbered in the catalogue. The authenticity of the coins is guaranteed by the cataloguers; the description of each item is made with great care. Additional information will be furnished upon request. All claims must be made within two weeks and no lots are returnable except by agreement of one of the cataloguers.

Bidders must have established credit with the cataloguers or send a deposit equal to 25% of their bids. Such deposits will be promptly refunded if bids are not successful.

No commission will be charged, but postage and insurance will be added to invoice. Remittance must be made promptly after receipt of invoice. A list of prices realized will be sent free of charge to all bidders.

Prices in brackets are our estimates. The lots may be sold higher or lower according to the bids received. The cataloguers suggest to submit liberal bids. They endeavour to buy for you at the lowest possible price, which means you will get the lot at the usual advance over the next lower bid.

Unlimited bids will be accepted; in case of two unlimited bids for the same lot preference is given to the first received. If a bidder wants to limit his purchases to a certain amount, he may say so, indicating a second choice. Such bids will be executed with care and as the situation warrants.

The coins are on exhibit from March 20th until March 24th at 101 West 55th St., Apt. 10F, New York 19, N. Y., or before on appointment.

P R E F A C E

We are happy to announce a sale of unusual importance.

Lots 1-240 comprise the collection of Professor Ernst Herzfeld, Institute for Advanced Studies, Princeton. Dr. Herzfeld is well-known the world over as one of the leading authorities in the art and science of the Near and Middle East. Between 1910 and 1935 he conducted numerous excavations—Samarra, Sistan, Pasargadas, Persepolis—and during these 25 years he had ample opportunity to acquire in Iraq, Iran and neighboring countries the best and most interesting specimens. Shortly after the discovery of the famous "treasure of Khwar" Dr. Herzfeld had the opportunity of seeing during the first months of 1923 a great part of it in Baghdad, Kirmanshar and Teheran.

Recent world political events had made us more conscious of the role which the Middle East has played not only in our times but in the ancient days of the Parthians and the Persians. We are convinced that an increasing number of numismatists will devote study to the relatively neglected field of the coinages of these people. There is here present an excellent opportunity for Institutions, advanced and beginning collectors.

Along with his coins Dr. Herzfeld handed over to us several manuscripts on the series represented in his collection. These are published herein for the first time in a separate section preceding the catalogue of the coins. Unfortunately due to the lack of Greek font it has been necessary for our printer to use Latin letters for Greek names. The British Museum Catalogue has been used as the Standard reference.

Of equal importance in its own field is the consignment of 84 Polish gold coins (lot 1213-1296) from the cabinet of Count Alexandre Orlowski one of the foremost specialists in this field in the U. S. A. Among these coins there are specimens which have never before been offered at public sale. All Polish mints are represented including the excessively rare Riga mint.

Other consignments in the sale which deserve attention are the small but choice one of Jewish coins (962-993), the unusual collection of siege and necessity pieces in which there are items which seldom appear on the market, and the series of Jefimki, concerning which a brief note (preceding lot 626) has been prepared by the cataloguers.

The remaining consignments are by no means negligible and cover virtually all fields of numismatics. We say with confidence that this sale contains "SOMETHING FOR EVERYBODY."

PROF. HERZFELD'S NOTES

No. 1 List of Provenience (attached.)
No. 2 Succession of the Parthian Kings.

Phriapites, 191-176, BASILEYS MEGAS. (Phriapites = Middle Persian, Friyapita = Greek, Philopator).

Phraates I, 176-171 Baileys Megas (Theopator)	Mithradates I, 171-138 Basileys Megas	Artabanus I, 128-123 Basileys Megas Philadelphos
Phraates II, 138-128 Basileys Megas Theopator	Sinatrukes, 87-70 Basileys Megas Theopator Euergetes	Mithradates II, 123-87 Basileys Basileon Megas Epiphanes
	Phraates III, 70-57 Basileys Megas Theos Euergetes Epiphanes

No. 3 Mithradates I conquers Media soon after B.C. 150. Between 150-140 he extends the borders of his empire up to India. Finally he takes possession of Elymais as far as the Euphrates and Hydaspes (= Choaspes), the river on which Susa is situated.

No. 4 There exist drachms with the legend: "Theopator" which are earlier than Mithradates I. Is the attribution of the unique tetradrachm in Berlin with Basileos Arsakoy—Gardner I.12.; BMC.IV.1—correct?

No. 5 All tetradrachms from Mithradates I to Vardanes and Gotarzes are coinages from Seleucia on the Tigris and did not circulate in Iran. All the early drachms are Iranian coinages; those of Phraates II are of Eastern Iranian origin! TAM = Tambrax, Tabarak in Tabaristan! NI, NICA, NICAK = Nisaia in Parthia; Syls or Syrs = Syrinx = Sarakhs.

No. 6 The unique tetradrachm in the British Museum, attributed to Himerus (?), circa B.C. 124-123, (BMC 23.1) is perhaps by a usurper of 128 B.C. With regard to Himerus see Newell in Num. Chron. 1924.3/4. My former tetradrachm (now Br.M.?) came from the "treasure of Khwar" which did not contain any of his drachms. Prokesch-Osten, with ΘΠΡ, dates all seven Himerus pieces B.C. 124/123. In the same year Hyspaosines strikes coins in Characene. Anyway, I still have my doubts as to Himerus.

No. 7 The "treasure of Khwar" (Cp. Newell, and also Dayet in Arethusa 1926) was found in 1922 in a little village, east of Waramin, south-east of Teheran, and belonging to the district of Khwar (Choarene). It did not contain any later pieces than Mithradates II and only those with "Epiphanes." It did contain many hundreds of drachms and tetradrachms of earlier Arsacid kings; therefore destined for hoarding rather than for use as actual currency. The group: Basileos Basileon Arsakoy Dikaioy Euergetoys Kai Philellenos BMC. 35. 117-120 is entirely missing. This group is not a "last" coinage of Mithradates II, but a coinage of "ARSAKES DIKAIOS" of Atropatene, whose name is mentioned in the Awraman documents. Mithradates II is Basileys Basileon Megas since B.C. 111/110.

No. 8 The arrangement from Mithradates II up to Orodes II is questionable. Orodes II has a dated tetradrachm and obols with "Hyrcodes." 221-225 Sel. era = 90-86 B.C.; In Babylonian documents:

- 1.) a "King Arsaka Gutarza" of the Behistun relief (Mithradates II) —about 123-111 B. C.—This Gotarzes I is contemporary with the later years of Mithradates II and Arsakes Dikaios.
2. 86-81/80 B. C. (= 231 Sel. era) an anonymous "ARSAKAN KING" is the same who
- 3.) since 80/79 B.C. (= 232 Sel. era) is called "ARSAKA URUDA," an unknown Orodes I.
- 4.) an ARSAKA "KING OF THE KINGS," who may be the 80 years old Sinatrutes?
- 5.) 70/69 B.C. (= 242 Sel era) an anonymous King Arsakan = Phraates III?
- 6.) 68/67 B.C. (= 244 Sel. era) a "King Arsakan," who must have been Phraates III.

The Babylonian datings allow for the years B.C. 90-60 six reigns; it is well possible that there were others in Iran.

The coins show ten types of legends. The first: "Basileos Basileon Arsakoy Dikaioy Euergetoys Kai Philellenos," consisting of drachms and bronze only, is not (BMC and Newell) Mithradates II but "ARSAKES DIKAIOS" of Atropatene, the first successor of Mithradates II. (See note No. 7). All others are only "Basileys Megas."

From this legend stems the later, stereotype formula: Euergetes Dikaios Epiphanes Philellen.

No. 9 Artabanus II (Wroth) is an erroneous conjecture of A. von Gutschmid. (An Armenian: Artabazes or Artavasdes.)

No. 10 In 67 B.C. there is a "King Mithradates of Atropatene" on the side of his father-in-law Tigranes against the Parthian Great King Phraates III. This is the "ARSAKES DIKAIOS." (see note 7 and 8.)

No. 11 Orodes II, on a tetradrachm dated 273 Sel. era (= B.C. 40/39) calls himself not "Megas" but "Basileys Basileon"; with exception of one drachm, Longperier VII.88.: Basileos Basileon Megaloy Philopatoros Dikaioy. These are struck at the time he fought against his brother Mithradates III for the succession. To him belongs also the tetradrachm with: Basileos Basileon Megaloy Arsakoy Kai Ktistoy.

The coin with: Basileos Basileon Megaloy Arsakoy Theopatoros (Petrovicz, Orodes I, 35) belongs to either Mithradates III or another usurper.

Orodes II, the early type: Basileos Basileon Arsakoy Philopatoros Dikaioy Epiphanoys Philellenos is rare.

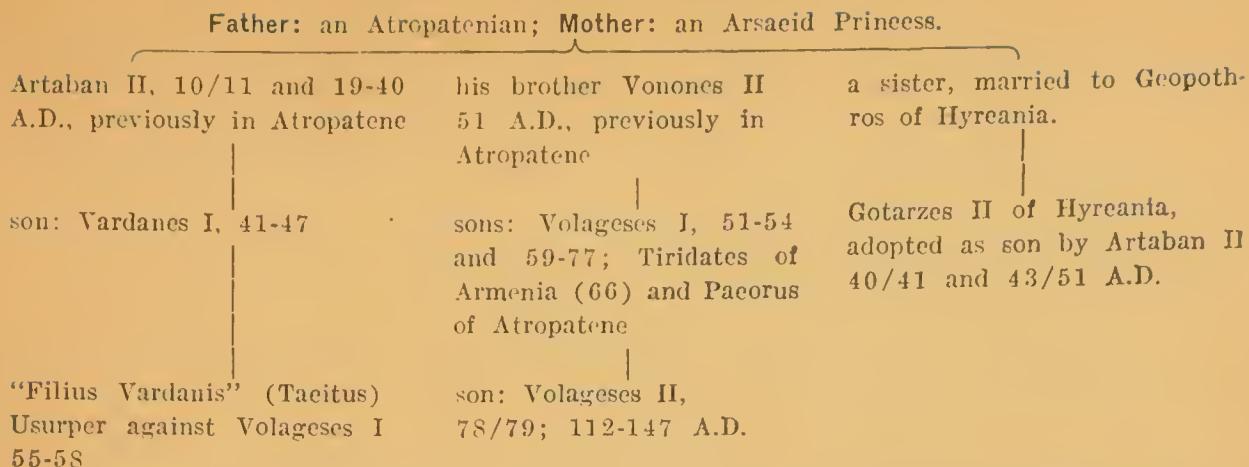

The later type is: Basileos Basileon Arsakoy Euergetoys Dikaioy Epiphanoys Philellenos. These last coinages were continued by Phraates IV whose first series with "Philopator" are coinages as successor to the throne under his father, after the death of Mithradates III who contested the succession. After having vanquished his brother, Orodes calls himself "Great King of Kings" and drops "Philopator."

No. 12 Phraates IV murders his father.

Usurper Tiridates III, legend: "Arsakoy Autokratoros Philoromaioy" (with the assistance of Augustus.)

No. 13 With Artabanus II (not the III; see note No. 9) the female line of the Arsacid dynasty ascends to the throne. Tacitus, "materna origine Arsacides" and further on "degener" (not equal in birth); in reality an Atropatenian.

Genealogical Chart

Incidentally, Atropatene is the present-day province of Azerbaijan in Iran.

No. 14 In 8 A.D. a Vonones I (on coins, ΟΝΩΝΗΣ) was called to the throne by the party of the Surenas. The Saka Azes, the king's brother Spalahores and his nephew Spalagadames recognize him as their sovereign.

Similarly from 55-58 A.D. Orthagnes was recognized as sovereign by the King Gondophares, the latter's brother Guda and his nephew Abdagases. Orthagnes is a Parthian not a Saka name, and he is Tacitus' "Filius Vardanis."

Abdagases, Gondophares' nephew, never ascends the throne, but his son Pacores, who strikes the same type of coins as Orthagnes.

No. 15 The coins of Orthagnes and Pacores (see #34-39) were discovered in 1929 near Bushir. I was informed that the hoard consisted of about 40 specimens. The Orthagnes coins were somewhat more worn.

List of Provenience of Lots 1-240

Acquired from the treasure of Khwar (Choarene): Lot 77; furthermore certain drachms of Phriapatius and Phraates, period of Mithradates I, Phraates II, Mithradates II (mostly those without helmet).

The following coins—lots 1-240—were acquired by Prof. Herzfeld from dealers in the bazaars of Baghdad, Teheran and other Middle Eastern cities between about 1905 and 1935. There is no doubt that all these coins were found by peasants when working on the fields. We believe that the obols of Alexander the Great (#1 ff.) are from an Eastern mint, and so are the two plated coins which are of particular interest (#4/5). How the hemidrachm from Tricca in Thessaly (#6) found its way to the East, we are unable to tell, but this is already the 3rd specimen we got during recent years from sources in the Middle East. (Dr. Herzfeld informs us foundation deposits discovered at Persepolis proved, that coins of Croesus and of Greek towns were current in Iran before the creation of an own Iranian coinage in Darius' early years.)

*26	PERSIS Silver tetradrachm of BGDT (pronounce: Baghdad). Obv. Head r. of Bagdat, with moustache and close-cropped beard; taenia showing on forehead; wears satrapal head-dress (kyrbasia) with double tie behind, and flaps fastened over top; earring in ear; border of dots. Rev. Fire-temple with double panelled doors, podium, pilasters and cornice; above, three battlements, each with two horns; on l. Bagdat, wearing kyrbasia Median long coat to the knees and wide trousers, under fur-lined overcoat, open; belt; shoes with long floating strings, standing r., both hands raised in adoration. On r., standard with decoration—cross with annulets in angles—and tassels.

Re-struck on another coin, of which border of dots in ex. and traces of Greek (?) letters remain on r.

Inscription differs from Br.M. piece: On r., divided by shaft of standard, downwards: BGDT—BR; in ex.: (P)R(T)DR (.) ZY: on l.; (.L) HY.

The legend, written with ideograms, is to be read: "Bagdat, Staxr fratadara e bagan, B., of Istakhr the Fire-Keeper, the divine."

I have dealt with the legends in "Essay on Pahlavi" in Paikuli, p. 45 f, and with the date in "Archaeol. History of Iran" p. 45f. Instead of B. C. 250, the series starts at B. C. 300. (Note of the cataloguer: Cp. Newell, Eastern Seleucid Mints, pg. 160.)

The British Museum specimen, first published in 1846, just hundred years ago, was acquired from Canon Eaton only in 1872. It was unique. The present piece differs slightly, and is equally unique, or a variant. 15,85 grammes. Was corroded and cleaned. Abt. V. F.

*27 — Silver tetradrachm of VHVBRZ, (Vahuburz, Oborzos). Obv. Head of Oborzos r., with moustache, wearing kyrbasia tied with diadem, and with flap brought forward to cover chin. No border of dots; if any, off flan. Rev. Fire-temple with double panelled doors etc. and three horned battlements as in the previous lot. On l. king, wearing kyrbasia, Median coat and trousers, belt, open overcoat, fur-lined, shoes with long strings, both hands raised in adoration; on r., standard, almost wholly off flan. Border of dots. Inscription: l. of king, downwards, VHVBRZ. Exergue: (PRT?) DR ZY. On r., downwards: only heads of letters preserved, lower parts off flan. The British Museum did not possess any tetradrachm of Vahuburz till 1922, date of the catalogue. The Paris specimen, Hill LII,10, was, then, unique. Before 1924 one other specimen appeared on the Baghdad market which I published in "Paikuli" pl. A, #23. I do not know where it went. The present piece would be the third, all three though similar, not identical. Vahuburz is represented, in sculpture, in the ruins of a temple at the foot of the terrace of Persepolis; see Iran in the ancient East, pl. LXXXVI. The temple is not younger than the first half, or even quarter of the third century B. C. 16,85 grammes. E. F.

PARTHIA

The following comprehensive group is uniformly described after the British Museum Catalogue. In a few instances we referred to Petrowicz, Arsaciden-Muenzen. We wish to draw the reader's attention to a number of notes by Prof. Ernst Herzfeld, printed at the beginning of this catalogue. These notes shed a new light on the attribution of certain series, and we believe that this contribution will help to stimulate the interest in this much neglected field.

In general, the Parthian coins have on obverse the head of the king to left, on reverse Arsaces, the founder of the dynasty, enthroned, holding a bow. In order to avoid repetitions we describe only any deviation from these designs as well as additional symbols and mint marks.

ROMAN LARGE BRONZES

The following series is a continuation of our last sale. Readers are respectfully referred to the preface of that catalogue. It was surprising for us to note that a remarkable interest was shown by our friends abroad, whilst our American friends followed suit rather tentatively, although some of them were expressing their gratitude for our, as it was termed, "valuable suggestion."

Honestly, these magnificent Roman portraits of finest quality will certainly become the pride of your cabinet.

CONS. R., OHIO

A SPECIALIZED COLLECTION OF TALERS (JEFIMKI) WITH RUSSIAN COUNTERSTAMPS OF CZAR ALEXIUS MICHAILOWITCH

The European Talers overstruck with Russian stamps of the year 1655 have always been considered a striking example of government counter-stamping. These pieces have been scantily treated in numismatic literature. They have been published but briefly by Luschin von Ebengreuth in "Allgemeine Munzkunde" page 43, by N. Bauer, Curator of the Eremitage Coin collection at Leningrad in "Mitteilungen for Munzsammler," Frankfurt March 1926, and by F. F. Gejtz "Jefimki" in Numizmatichesky Svornik II 1913 (an excellent article in Russian but unfortunately without any description of individual pieces). A real catalogue of the Jefimki does not exist except for a German Sales catalogue issued by the firm of F. F. Kraus in Brunswick in October 1928, compare lot 1343-1480.

Bauer in Leningrad stated in a letter written in 1929 that the Eremitage possessed about 360 pieces of which he made a detailed description. However the manuscript has never been published. Therefore we believe it will be a worthwhile contribution for the English speaking numismatic world to elaborate on the Jefimki coinage and to attempt a thorough description of this outstanding collection.

Jefimki was the old established name for Talers in Russia, Jefim being the Russian equivalent for the German Joachim. (Singular, Jefimok; plural, Jefimki). This name is found in documents from 1557 on. In the documents these large coins were divided into two classes: Lubeck Talers and Cross Talers, the latter were without doubt the Albert Talers, Talers struck by Albert, Archduke of Austria 1598-1621 for the Netherlands, the reverses of which had the cross of Burgundy. The Lubeck Talers included all German issues and were valued two kopecks more than the others.

The Russian government needed these Talers mainly as a silver supply for making payments abroad, for minting of kopecks, and for paying foreigners in Russia's service. Therefore the trade in these coins was considered an exclusive government monopoly. This condition continued until the fifties of the 17th century, when the counsellors of Czar Alexius initiated various financial and monetary reforms. One of these "Reforms" was the counterstamping of all Crown-sized coins in the Russian Treasury. These were put in circulation at a value of 64 kopecks, although the government did not pay more than 50 kopecks for them. It is regrettable that this particular order of the Czar has not come down to us.

Two independent counterstamps were used in this operation, a round stamp showing the Czar on horseback below which appears the mintmark of the Moscow mint, and a rectangular stamp bearing the date "1655" only, in which the two 5's look like SS. This style of numeral was apparently borrowed from the Dutch Talers of the period. Both stamps occur on all pieces and on one side only, either on obverse or reverse.

Like all counterstamped pieces these Talers are numismatic monuments fascinating and intriguing in their appeal. Besides their interest for the Russian numismatist they are of considerable importance to those who specialize in coins of the countries of their origin. Before they became Russian money they had been in circulation for many decades, and some even for a century as German or Dutch money. More or less plainly they speak the language of two countries and often of different periods.

Following you will find description of 97 Jefimki, the greatest collection of these ever assembled in the States. The references identify the coin in its state before counterstamping occurred. Also we are referring to previous sales catalogues. The abbreviation of OBV. or REV. after the description indicates whether the counterstamps are on the obverse or reverse of the coin.

In as much as we feel that such unsurpassed collection of Jefimoks should be kept in its entirety, we are willing to accept bids for the complete collection comprising lots No. 626 to 722.
